

John's Journey - Day 13

April 13, 2009

Craighead County Fairgrounds Jonesboro, AR to Waldenburg, AR.

I pulled out at 8:30 AM. It was pretty cool today and the mules are feeling fine. Britt's doing great & having the time of her life.

I got a bit confused when I left this morning and took the wrong road. I went south on Highway 1. It was still okay though, because it crossed Highway 14 and I headed across toward Waldenburg, AR. to get back on course.

Dawn came by and we tried to find a Verizon Wireless Store. There was none in town. I'm having trouble picking up the weather forecast on my phone.

Calvin Pfettfer, Chris's brother came by this afternoon. He took the set of shoes that Clint removed yesterday and had the Borium reapplied. That will allow me to re-use those shoes later.

I'm spending the night at Tony Heeb's farm. It's about 7 miles east of Waldenburg. I took a picture of his old tractor. It's been a long time since I've seen a tractor with steel wheels.

There was a reporter from The Modern News of Harrisburg, AR interviewed me today.

I drove 24 miles today.
