

John's Journey - Day 22

April 22, 2009

Rison, AR to Fordyce, AR

The mules broke the water tub sometime during the night so I needed to give them water from a bucket. I'll need to get another tub later because they sure can drink a lot of water.

Sometime during the night Jack cut his muzzle, it was probably when they were messing around with the water tub. Anyhow, I put some medicine on it, and it should be fine in a day or two.

I pulled out about the same time as usual and passed through Kingsland Township, the Birthplace of Johnny Cash.

A man came by and gave me some money to buy dinner. I sure do appreciate that. Although I'm doing okay I sure do appreciate a hot meal after a long day that I don't have to fix.

I stopped at the Citgo station. The clerk gave me some Little Debbie Cakes. She said some lady had already paid for them. I thanked her and left the station.

When I got outside, Mack had somehow pulled a magic trick & had gotten his bridle completely off. These guys amaze me at some of the things they can do in a very short period of time. Well I put it back on and in a few minutes we were on our way again.

Passed by an old outhouse - had to take the picture.

I'm spending the night at the Fordyce Civic Center. After I parked & got settled, I noticed that I lost my spare battery somewhere along the way. I have no idea where, but it must have bounced off the trailer somewhere.

I drove 24 miles today & I'll be heading toward Camden, AR just off of 79. I'm planning on spending tomorrow night near the airport.
