

John's Journey - Day 45

May 15, 2009

East of Wichita Falls, TX to Holliday, TX

I got up early again this morning. It's a nice cool morning. I pulled out about the same time as usual. Lots of people waved & blew their horns at me today. Quite a few of them stopped me and talked along the side of the road. There's always something going on out there on the road.

I was interviewed by another TV station from Wichita Falls today.

I planned to drive straight through Wichita Falls today.

As I came into town the police followed me part of the way through town and then Officer Mike Philips asked me to take a different route than I intended. There was construction in town so they got ahead of me & led me in the right direction. They got me turned onto Seymour Street which took me direct to Holliday. I sure did appreciate their help through town.

I'm staying tonight at the Holliday Feed & Farmers Supply in Holliday, TX on Highway 82 Business route on the east side of town. I drove about 20 miles today.

Pat Pullin brought me 6 bales of hay. He has been helping me out quite a bit and I sure do appreciate all that he has done for me.

I received quite a few donations today. I sure do appreciate all of your support. A man also stopped by and gave Brit 7.5 pounds of Meaty Bone Treats.

I am planning on heading toward Seymour tomorrow. It's about 38 miles. I really don't think we will go that far.

I just heard that there's more bad weather coming in tonight. I talked with my sister Bev & she confirmed that the weather channel was predicting thunderstorms tonight and possibly tomorrow. Depending upon the weather, I may just spend another day here.
